Bio

AdELA is a South African-born, Florida-raised, Atlanta native and independent triple-threat singer, songwriter, and rapper. An RIAA Certified Gold artist for her work with Meek Mill, she broke onto the charts with her 2017 EP Dreamers and Thinkers, which featured collaborations with legends like Fat Joe and Royce Da 5'9".

A powerhouse in sync and composition, she penned the 2022 Stanley Cup anthem for the NHL and has created custom music for Netflix, HBO Max, and Hulu. These achievements earned her the Best Newcomer Award at the 2022 Production Music Awards.

As the CEO of Off The Burner Music and creator of the children's brand Hunny & Koko, AdELA thrives as an independent visionary with a sound and style entirely her own.
