Bio

Jonny Shorr is a Chicago-born, Los Angeles-based producer, songwriter, and multi-instrumentalist whose work has amassed over 500 million streams worldwide. Renowned for both his polished production style and keen ear for emerging talent, Jonny has become a sought-after collaborator in the pop and alt-pop scenes. He co-wrote and produced Upsahl's breakout hit "People I Don't Like" and played a key role in shaping her debut album, Lady Jesus. His versatile credits span a wide range of artists, including Gayle, G-Eazy, Bebe Rexha, Blackbear, and Grace VanderWaal, among others. With anticipated new music from Will Linley, Claire Rosinkranz, Rosie, Astrid S, and Dagny on the way, Jonny continues to be a driving creative force. He operates out of a fully equipped studio in Hollywood, designed specifically for high-end recording and production, where he develops cutting-edge sounds and pushes the boundaries of modern pop.
